PROJECT STAY SAFE

MARYAM BIBI

DATE: 10,13 DECEMBER /2022

REPORT

I with my 5 fellows from the group Play Your Way, attended the session for 16 hours under the supervision of the Pakistan Girls Guide Association. Our requirement was to Conduct a 4-hour session in any school. So we conducted the session at Noble Grammer Public School. The age group was between 12-14 years.

Project Stay Safe has four modules:

- Personal safety
- Online Security
- Prevention of substance abuse or drug abuse
- Emotional well-being.

Personal safety:

Your personal safety is a general recognition and avoidance of possible harmful situations or persons in your surroundings. Be responsible for your personal safety:

- Be alert to potential danger
- Trust your instincts
- Be aware of all your surroundings
- Avoid anything that does not feel safe
- Anticipate possible problems
- Be vigilant and prepared for anything
- Report suspicious activity

I conduct an activity: Meena Ki Kahani in which the students Draw a mind map of the story and then present it.

Online Safety:

No doubt the internet provides so many facilities but there are many bad consequences of using the internet. Like:

- ✓ Internet addiction
- ✓ Social media scandals
- ✓ User cookies
- ✓ Information changing
- ✓ Password insecurity and many others.

We gave them an understanding of what is real or fake in terms of news, images, and videos. Strong password recommendations and the unknown side hazards of mobile cameras were also told.

I along with my friend Tuba conduct an activity: Information sharing by action in which we make students stand in a line tell an action to the last girl and ask them to continue to pass it again and again to the front girls till the first girl reached, after that, we ask the first and last girl to do the action and the result was that their action was completely changed. That's how fake information is spread on the internet.

Emotional Well-being:

In this I teach them How you react to your experiences and feelings can change over time. Emotional wellness is the ability to successfully handle life's stresses and adapt to change and difficult times.

- Having the ability to talk with someone about your emotional concerns and share your feelings with others.
- Saying "no" when you need to without feeling guilty.
- Feeling content most of the time.
- Feeling you have a strong support network i.e. people in your life that care about you.
- Being able to relax.

Activity: Story of the elephant and 6 Blind men.

Activity: A game of passing the emotions written on the paper in a box was passed and the girls will have to act out the emotion in front of the class.

Substance abuse:

I taught students what are drugs. Any type of drug abuse is injurious to health. Drugs, on the other hand, are useful and beneficial when used as prescribed by a physician. Also, Drug abuse and Drug addiction were taught to them. I conducted an activity in which we draw a tree on the board which had three parts: Root, Trunk, and branches. I made three groups in the class, give them charts and ask them to draw one part of the tree in each group and write the causes, effects, and preventions of drugs.

Student remarks:

The students were very happy with the training session, they were excited to learn something new and to do such activities that were new to them. The students were very confident and gave a very excellent response that we are not expecting, they take part in every activity happily.

My Opinion:

I personally felt very confident and happy after carrying out such a big event successfully. The whole credit goes to the PGGA team and especially the guides who gave us the training session and boost us that there is nothing any girl cannot do. I did not have any confidence issues before this, but this cascading made me even more confident. I myself learned a lot from this session.

Lastly, the only suggestion I would like to give is that such type of session should be arranged in universities for building confidence in girls and guiding them on how to handle themselves in times of difficulty.
